The service of XM Instant Traffic & Weather is useful and should be supported by the FCC. There is, as recognized by the US Supreme Court a constitutional right of travel as well as, of course, a free speech right. Both are implicated in the entitlement of XM to provide to its subscribers info. re. traffic and weather throughout the US. This is not an infringement on local broadcasts. For example, I was travelling from NY to Baltimore this past weekend to attend the Lacrosse Championships. I needed to know the weather and traffic info to plan accordingly. XM satellite provided that information. My daughter lives outside D. C.; by listening to traffic and weather for the D.C. area I am able to establish a connect to her life that I would not otherwise have. In attending college football games in the Boston area it is necessary and usefull to know the weather and traffic before and while I am on my trip. During this past awful winter in the northeast I would often listen to the Phoenix weather and at least for a while warm up as a result of that city's forecast; likewise with the LA area. Support XM please in order that it can continue this exceptional service that does not adversely affect the local broadcasts which I cannot receive anyway ! Thank you for your consideration.
